Career Technical Education

Our country's economy continues to soar, with new record low unemployment levels being tallied, accompanied by ongoing job growth. Such momentum creates a skills gap for business and industry, in search of a trained, educated and diverse workforce to fill open positions at their companies and organizations. Their need presents a "sweet spot" for community colleges, partly because of the diversity of our students and also because of our expertise with Career Technical Education and our ability to produce that talent.

Learning Resource Centers

Ronghua Luo conducted a library orientation for a ENG 119 class at the Downriver Campus. The orientation covered all resources available to help promote student success in their course.

In a recent article published by Association of College and Research Libraries, 2018 top trends in academic libraries helps to document how WCCCD Learning Resource Centers are in alignment with these emerging trends:

- Acquisition of information through online search
- Information literacy
- Project management

We are proud of the progress being made within our Learning Resource Centers and look forward to implementing more strategic initiatives to promote student success.
