MEMORANDUM

TO: WCCCD Faculty

FROM: Curtis L. Ivery, Chancellor

SUBJECT: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) for Faculty

DATE: August 21, 2020, Page 1 of 6

It is our pleasure to welcome you to the beginning of the 2020 Fall Semester. Because of the continuing challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, this semester will be different than any other that we have experienced during our lifetimes.

As the District continues to move forward with the Fall Semester, we are truly appreciative of the dedication, resilience, and agility of our faculty. We are also mindful of the concerns that faculty members may have during this unprecedented time and appreciate the questions we have received. As a result, we have provided a list of frequently asked questions (FAQs) based on the input from members of the faculty. If you have questions or concerns about matters that are not addressed in the FAQs listed below, please contact the COVID-19 Special Unit in the Division of Human Resources at 313-496-2765 and ask for Mr. Ahmed, WCCCD Sr. Vice Chancellor and Chief of Staff.

What is the District's position on faculty members who decide that it is not safe enough for them to teach face-to-face during the fall semester?

What is the process if students or employees test positive for COVID-19 or exhibit symptoms?

What is the District's plan for supporting faculty in terms of curriculum development and teaching and learning technologies?

What is the role of the special COVID-19 unit in Human Resources?

For answers to these questions and more, please visit the following link:

What Construction Laborers Do?

Construction laborers typically clean and prepare construction sites by removing debris and possible hazards. They also load or unload building materials to be used in construction build or take apart bracing, scaffolding, and temporary structures, dig trenches, backfill holes, or compact earth to prepare for construction, operate or tend equipment and machines used in construction. In addition they follow construction plans and instructions from supervisors or more experienced workers to assist craft workers with their duties.

The WCCCD Athletic Department is preparing for incoming freshman to sign their NJCAA letters of intent.

I would like to thank our Wildcat student-athletes and coaches for persevering through these difficult and uncertain times. The 2019-20 season will never be forgotten. It brought about challenges and changes throughout our State, as well as, the NJCAA Conference. In spite of these challenges, we were still able to provide our students with athletic scholarships to four-year institutions. Listed to the right are the names of colleges and universities our athletes will be attending for the 2020-21 season.

"Being a call center representative during this unprecedented time has truly been an experience I'll never forget. When speaking to a student you can hear the fear and worry in their voice but what makes it all worth it is at the end of the call you now hear calmness and a sense of comfort. Those are the calls that you hold on to." ~Adrian Boucher

"Being a call center representative during this challenging time has definitely been an experience that is unforgettable. However, being there for a student who is confused and scared all at the same time has been very rewarding." ~Shumana Khalique

"To be able to provide students with the information they are looking for and setting goals for their future in such overwhelming and trying times has been a sense of relief for me. Being able to provide our community and students actual customer service experience as we all transition on the next phase of life is a great feeling." ~Maliha Khan

DR. RANDALL MILLER SHARES LEADERSHIP THOUGHTS WITH EXECUTIVE TEAM

Data Failures in Health Care

We know that hospitals and ambulances had no real-time information-sharing system during the 9/11 disaster. Nineteen years later, there is still no national data network that enables our health systems to respond effectively to disasters and disease outbreaks.

"There are signs the COVID-19 pandemic has created momentum to modernize the nation's fragmented public health data system, in which nearly 3,000 local, state and federal health departments set their own reporting rules and vary greatly in their ability to send and receive data electronically," according to Harris Meyer, former managing editor of Modern Health Care, as reported in the Holland Sentinel, August 15, 2020.

We are falling behind in the U.S. compared to other advanced countries. In France, physicians' offices report patient symptoms to a central agency every day; whereas, cases in the U.S. are uncoordinated and often missing key information about patients. Collaborative efforts are finally emerging around the country to speed and improve the sharing of clinical data on individual COVID-19 cases.

Clearly, given a world-wide pandemic, opportunities abound to address this challenge of coordinating health care data systems. Our graduates with health care and computer specializations can have a real impact on improving responsiveness to COVID-19 and the next pandemic.
